It works best with one thread in computation intensive servlets. Because frequent context switch between threads is a a unnessary overhead for computation intensive work.